NO OPEN SUNDAY-PRESBYTERY Protests, by Unanimous Vote, Against Liquor Selling on That Day.

The New York Presbytery came ou flat-footed against any form of Sunday opening at its regular monthly meeting yesterday at the Old First Church.

At the December meeting a resolution on the matter was submitted by the Rev. J. J. Munro, one of the chaplains of the Tombs, but, as hasty action in such an important question was deemed inadvisable the entire matter was referred to the Committee on Temperance, composed of Dr. D. Stuart Dodge, the Rev. George S. Avery and the Rev. Thomas Cockran.

This committee made its report at yesterday's meeting and it was the chief business disposed of, the report being adopted in the form of a resolution by a rising vote the members, every one of whom the affirmative. The report says:

of the members, every one of whom voted in the affirmative. The report says:

The Presbytery of New York is solemn in its protest against the opening of the saloons on the Sabbath. We believe that the interests of both religion and humanity demand a general observance of the day legally set apart from the earliest period of our history for public worship and civic rest. No special privileges should be granted to one trade while denied to others, and emphatically not to a trade acknowledged to be an increasing infury to the community.

We call for an impartial enforcement of the present laws for the protection of the Sabbath, and we feel assured that the moral sensiment of a majority of the citizens will sustain the authorities in this course. A former police administration demonstrated the possibility of Sunday closing, and it is beyond question that this can be accomplished again. Opposition swould come chiefly from a small and interested body of producers and retailers.

It has likewise been made evident by the testimony of those who are familiar with the actual conditions and opinions of the better elements of our foreign population that the unparalleled privileges conferred by our American institutions are widely appreciated by a large constituency and that only a limited and ignorant minority desires any change, while the most of our intelligent laboring classes on their own confession would be vestly benefited by the suppression of the while the most of our intelligent laboring classes on their own confession would be vastly benefited by the suppression of the Sunday saloon. This Presbytery reaffirms its conviction that the charitable organizations of this city should take early and effective of this city should take early and enective steps to make suitable provision for the social wants of the people. We also recognize the fact that citizens of different classes and sections are ready to insist upon a due re-gard for the rights of the established day of

NEGRO BISHOP SPEAKS OUT.

REPUDIATE SALE OF CHURCH. Members of Holy Sepulchre Want to Retain It.

A committee of the Holy Sepulchre Episcopal Church, Seventy-fourth street near Park avenue, waited upon Bishop Potter yesterday to protest against the action of the vestry of that church in voting, last Saturday night, to sell the property, pension the rector, the Rev. Dr. Thomas P. Hughes as rector emeritus, and turn the remaining property over to the Church of the Archangel, St. Nicholas avenue, near 122d street.

The result of the conference between congregation committee and the Bishcp congregation committee and the Bishcp was not arrived at yesterday, owing to lack of time, and the matter remains unsettled, with the chances, it is said, in favor of Bishop Potter continuing in his former belief that consolidation is the best course. It is said that the Holy Sepulchre property is probably worth $45,000 to $50,000. There is a mortgage of $12,000 and a few floating debts. The salary of the rector, the Rev. Dr. Hughes, is to continue at $2,000 a year, the same as it is now, but is to terminate at the end of five years. His title is to be rector emeritus of Archangel parish. It is estimated that there will be an equity of about $25,000 to go to the Harlem parish. The rector of the latter is the Rev. G. S. Pratt. lem parish. The Rev. G. S. Pratt.

The contention of the committee which waited upon Bishop Potter yesterday follows in the language of a member of it:

"The church is needed where it is, and with half a chance it can be supported. If Dr. Hughes will accept $10,000, retire and let the church remain, we feel sure of being able to maintain ourselves with a new man. There has long been dissatis-faction in the parish, and people have left rather than make a row. Unless Holy raction in the parish, and people have left rether than make a row. Unless Holy Sepulchre Church remains there will be many lost to the church altogether. They will not go to St. James, which is of quite another social class, nor to Holy Trinity, which is of still another class. There is a vast field, and we feel it a disgrace that our Episcopal Church should abandon it."

All Republicans in the State. ALBANY, Jan. 13 .- So far as prominent Republican officials at Albany are concerned the atmosphere over the election of United States Senator to succeed the Hon. Thomas C. Platt was exceedingly clear to-day. Gov. Odell's attention was called to a published statement coming from Senator Platt that he would be a candidate for reëlection.

"It has been my opinion for a long time," said Gov. Odell to-day, "that Senator Platt would be reflected. Since he has announced his desire for a reflection I think he will be supported by all the Republicans in the State."

Lieut.-Gov. Timothy L. Woodruff, who Lieut.-Gov. Timothy L. Woodruff, who has been prominently mentioned as a suc-cessor to Senator Platt, if the latter did not desire a reëlection, said: "There is no question but that Senator Platt would have full Republican support. THE COMING OF PRINCE HENRY

GENEROUS AND CORDIAL RE-CEPTION AWAITS HIM. resident Roosevelt Attaches Importance

to the Kalser's Action, as It Will Strengthen the Friendly Relations Between Germany and United States.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 .- All evidence concerning the manner in which President Roosevelt regards the action of the Kaiser in deciding to send Prince Henry of Prussia as his personal representative at the launching of the new imperial yacht points to a great feeling of gratification on the part of the President over the coming of the German Emperor's brother to these shores. Mr. Roosevelt, like most of his advisers, attaches considerable importance to the Kaiser's action, and there is a general feeling in Administration circles that the relations between Germany and the United States will be strengthened through Prince Henry's visit.

The marked compliment paid to the President by the Kaiser in the invitation to Miss Roosevelt to christen the imperial yacht, has paved the way for a generous and cordial reception of the Prince, who, despite the understanding that he will not visit America in an official capacity, will be treated with distinguished honor by the Executive Government.

No plans have been made for the entertainment of Prince Henry while he is in this country, but the President will give consideration to that matter shortly. It is expected that he will discuss the subject is expected that he will discuss the stolect with his Cabinet at their regular meeting to-morrow, and that suggestions will be made which the proper officers will be in-structed to carry out. At the Cabinet meeting on Friday last the President spoke of the Kaiser's announcement that Prince Henry would attend the launching, and Henry would attend the launching, and there was some talk as to the manner in which he should be received and enter-tained, but without any conclusion being reached, as there was no opportunity be-fore the meeting adjourned to examine the State Department records for prece-dents.

It is the understanding among members of the Cabinet that when Prince Henry comes to Washington—and that he will come is regarded as a foregone conclusion—he will be the guest of the German Ambassador, Herr Von Holleben, who has a fine residence on Massachusetts avenue which sador. Herr Von Holleben, who has a fine residence on Massachusetts avenue which is owned by the German Government. It was said to-day that even if Prince Henry should become the official guest of the nation and the personal guest of President Roosevelt it would be impossible to accommodate him and his suite at the White House, which is too small for any such purpose. purpose.

Princess Eulalie of Spain, who visited America in 1803, the Columbian Exposition year, as the guest of the nation, made her stay in Washington at the Arlington Hotel. on that occasion she was met at the Pennsylvania Railway station here by the Secretary of State, the late Mr. Gresham, and escorted to the Arlington by a squadron of cavalry. She made the first call on President Cleveland at the White House, and Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland returned the call at the hotel. Whether the visit of Prince the hotel. Whether the visit of Prince enry to Washington will be marked by similar observances has not been deter-mined, but the indications are that it will be, although the status of the Kaiser's brother will be different from that of the Spanish princess, in that Spain was invited to send a representative to the World's Fair and Congress made a special approrair and congress made a special appropriation for her entertainment.

While no plan has been formed by the Administration in regard to the honors to be shown Prince Henry, there is an understanding between the President and him advisors that the imperial visitor will be met at New York by officers of the army and the navy and a representative of State Department and the salutes due his rank as an Admiral of the German Navy will be given him. He will be escorted to Washington by the army, the escorted to Washington by the army, to navy and the State Department representatives, who will act as his personal escort during his stay in this country, and there will be a dinner and perhaps a ball or reception at the White House in his honor. Beyond that nothing has been determined or even suggested. It is probe that the state of the sta able that some warships will meat Prince's vessel at Sandy Hook and escort it up the bay to New York. But as a Cabinet officer said to-day, there is plenty of tin

Much speculation is being indulged in motives of the Kaiser in his recent pronounced compliments to this Govern-ment and its Chief Magistrate. Germany attitude in connection with the collection of her claims against Venezuela was con-siderate of the feelings of this Govern-ment and was disclosed with such courteous ment and was disclosed with such courteous regard for the principle of the Monroe Doctrine that its significant friendliness was not lost on the Administration, and when this was followed by the Kaiser's request that Miss Roosevell act as sponsor for his yacht, and later by his decision to send his brother to attend the launching, the conviction was irresistible that the German sovereign desired to emphasize his good will toward America and the Ameri-

Capt. E. G. Parker of the four-masted American schooner James W. His gift comprises not only the site and proposed building, but also an endowment which will make the charity independent of other contributions. The site was bought from the American Ice Company through the brokerage firm of Charles H. Easton & Co., and is said to have cost $33,000.

REEVES CONTINUES TO ACCUSE NEELY AND RATHBONE.

Tells of Neely's Plot to Have Rathbone Made Civil Governor of Cuba—Rath-bone Takes the Stand and Tells Why He Appointed the Other Two to Places Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN.

HAVANA, Jan. 13.-The hearing in the Havana Post Office fraud cases was resumed to-day. Dr. W. H. Reeves, former Chief of Postal Accounts, who turned State's evidence and accuses former Director General of Posts Rathbone and C. F. W. Neely, Chief of the Financial Bureau, was ross-examined by Senor Zavas.

Reeves testified the other day that Neely and said that if Rathbone became Civil Governor of Cuba they, Neely, Reeves and Rathbone, could do crooked business on a larger scale than they were then doing in Post Office. To-day Reeves said that Neely had written newspaper articles in favor of Rathbone as Civil Governor. He also caused a petition to be sent to the President to appoint Rathbone.

Before going to the United States in April, 1900, Neely gave him a packet containing $4,800 and asked him to fix the books. Neely had never before given him money nor asked him to fix the books though the frauds of Neely could have been been discovered by means of the witness's books. Senor Zayas asked how it was that Neely waited until the day he left to ask him to fix the books and never gave him money before. The witness replied that Neely then wanted the books prepared for Mr. Burton's inspection. Neely never asked him to fix the books for the inspection May, 1899. Reeves then left the stand

Ex-Director of Posts Rathbone was the next witness. He occupied the stand for three hours and was examined by the Fiscal. He said he had had experience in the United States as chief postal inspector and in other positions. He received his appointment in Cuba from the Postmaster-General in December, 1898. Neely was recommended to him by a letter from Perry Heath, formerly Assistant Postmaster General. This letter was read. It highly recommended Neely as a hustler, and said he was of good habits, as loval as lovalty itself, and would make a grand confidentia man whom one would like to have as an executive officer as well as a confidant. The witness said he appointed Neely, who was charged with keeping the stamps. Rathbone was not bound by the postal regulations to personally see the counting of the stamps received and the sale of the same. This was Neely's duty.

A letter from Mr. Lawshe to Rathbone was read recommending Reeves as a practical bookkeeper, to whom the important work of the bureau might well be intrusted Upon this recommendation the witness appointed Reeves as chief of postal accounts. When the question of frauds in the Post Office arose in May, 1900, it was discovered that the monthly reports from country Postmasters, which he had ordered, were not being sent. He wrote to Chief Clerk Bristow, asking why he had not carried out the order, and instructing him to investigate the matter thoroughly and report thereon. He thought a possible explanation of the non-carrying out of the order was the executive order of the President issued in May, 1899.

The Fiscal argued that if the executive order of the President was reason for noncompliance with the recommendation regarding monthly statements it could also be applied to the instructions contained in the letter from Rathbone to Bristow. Rathbone was very cool and collected. He made a good impression

HIS HAND OUT TO ROSEBERY Liberal Leader Wants the Former One Return and Work for Peace

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. LONDON, Jan. 13 .- At the meeting to-day the new Metropolitan organization of National Liberal Federation Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, leader of the Lib-eral party, was the chief speaker. He got an enthusiastic reception.

In the course of his speech he contended that the Government, in stopping farm burning in South Africa and in improving the concentration camps, had justified his criticisms. He was convinced, he said, that the war could be ended by conciliation instead of force. The Liberal party, months ago, had urged this, and now they were reënforced from the most influential quarter, namely, Lord Rosebery, whose retirement he had always regretted. He had publicly and privately urged Lord Rosebery to rejoin the party. Sir Henry interpreted Lord ebery's Chesterfield speech as showing a desire to return to the party.

He hoped Lord Rosebery would support the Liberals in their efforts to secure peace, regarding which there was no substantial difference between Lord Rosebery's view and his own. There was absolutely nothing to prevent Lord Rosebery from cooperating with the Liberals, and it would not be the speaker's fault if he did not co-

Before Sir Henry's speech a letter from Lord Rosebery was read excusing his absence. The reading was interrupted by tumultuous cries of "Traitor," "Burn it." Lord Rosebery said in his letter that he hoped the meeting would aim at securing a unity of common sense and liberalism, to which he trusted some contribution had been made by him in his Chesterfield speech, and that unity would proceed on broad progressive national lines. The audience was chiefly composed of anti-war Liberals, who did not receive with favor Sir Henry's advances to Lord Rosebery, who was repeatedly hooted. Some shouted "wobbler" when Sir Henry said he rejoiced at Lord Rose bery's return. Sir Henry also elicited angry dissent by certain of his references to the war, which were not sufficiently pro-Boer to please the extremists. On the other hand a section cheered at Sir Henry's references to the cooperation of Lord Rosebery, and the shouts of assent and dissent were so indiscriminate that little could be deduced from the meeting as an indication of the development of the party.

NO TERMS TO THE BOERS. Cape Colony Premier Still Calls for Un conditional Surrender.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SU CAPE Town, Jan. 13 .- Sir John Gordon Sprigg. Prime Minister of the Cape Colony, presided to-day at a meeting of the Vigilance Association. In the course of an address he said that the termination of the war rested with the Boers, it being only necessary for them to lay down their arms. This, he added, would probably not occur

He was entirely opposed to England offering anything in the nature of terms to induce the Boers to submit. Recollections of the blow inflicted on the loyalists by the Majuba settlement induced him to take a leading part in the movement to prevent any recurrence of that fatal calamity. Unconditional surrender was absolutely essential, and the Boers were sure to receive better treatment than they de-

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN COPENHAGEN, Jan. 13 .- The King to-day received a deputation, who presented a petition signed by 34,000 politicians and professional men of all parties, praying that none of the Danish colonies be sold without an opportunity being given to the inhabitants to vote on the question. The King received the deputation cordially. He declared that while diplomatic negotiations were pending he was unable to express his views on the questions involved. He begged the petitioners to place, as he did, full confidence in the Ministry, who would know how to safeguard the islands and their inhabitants.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN BERLIN, Jan. 13 .- Although the newspapers comment at length on Mr. Chamber lain's retort to Chancellor von Bulow they do in most instances with noticeable calmness. The unanimity with which a more cautious tone is adopted seems to suggest an intimation from above that it is desirable to avoid the further throwing of oil on the flames.
